

Fraud Warning

The company names "Allianz" and "Allianz Global Investors GmbH" are currently being misused in connection with attempted fraud.

Allianz Global Investors GmbH would like to make its customers and potential investors aware that the company name of its parent company, Allianz SE, as well as its own company name are being misused for fraud purposes. The company name "Allianz Global Investors GmbH" has been cloned and is used in connection with the offering of certain financial services that are unrelated to the services provided by Allianz Global Investors GmbH. In addition, the names of employees have been stolen and misused as well.

This is done without our authorization and has no connection to Allianz Global Investors GmbH and appears to be fraudulent. The products and services offered by Allianz Global Investors GmbH can be accessed via the website www.allianzgi.com/.

In particular, offers for a "fixed-term deposit account" at Allianz Global Investors GmbH or for a "trading account" with the option of trading crypto assets have been classified as fraudulent in the recent past. Addressing potential customers via WhatsApp or other messenger apps also often took place in connection with fraudulent activities.

Anyone who receives unwanted or unexpected calls or messages/emails regarding "Allianz Global Investors GmbH" should not disclose any personal information or make any payments.

You can report any attempted fraud to us at the following email address: fraudEU@allianzgi.com
